MEMORANDUM OPINION

September 14, 2022
Wilmington, Delaware

CONNOLLY, Chief Judge:

Petitioner Jack Enic Clark, who appears pro se, filed this action as a petition for writ of mandamus. (D.I. 1) Currently pending is Respondent Bill Fritzlen's motion to dismiss, opposed by Petitioner. (D.I. 10) The matter is fully briefed.

I. BACKGROUND

The following facts are taken from the Petition and assumed to be true for purposes of deciding the pending motion. See Umland v. PLANCO Fin. Servs., Inc., 542 F.3d 59, 64 (3d Cir. 2008). Petitioner lives in Virginia. (D.I. 1 at 2) This action is brought against Bill Fritzlen, a Department of State officer in the Special Consular's Office in Washington, D.C. (Id. at 3) The Petition asserts jurisdiction by reason of U.S.C. Title 22-Foreign Relations and Intercourse. (Id.)

Petitioner "declares he is a citizen held hostage/imprisoned by a foreign government" by the Commonwealth of Virginia and its agents who do not have a congressional mandate to do so and that the Commonwealth of Virginia is operating against the laws of Delaware. (Id. at 3) Petitioner asks the Court to issue a Writ of Mandamus or, in the alternative, to order his unconditional release. (Id. at 1)

Respondent moves to dismiss pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P. 12(b)(1) for lack of subject matter jurisdiction. (D.I. 10)

II. LEGAL STANDARDS

Rule 12(b)(1) of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure permits the dismissal of an action for “lack of subject matter jurisdiction.” A Rule 12(b)(1) motion may be treated as either a facial or factual challenge to the court’s subject matter jurisdiction. See Davis v. Wells Fargo, 824 F.3d 333, 346 (3d Cir. 2016). A facial attack contests the sufficiency of the pleadings, whereas a factual attack contests the sufficiency of jurisdictional facts. See Lincoln Ben. Life Co. v. AEI Life, LLC, 800 F.3d 99, 105 (3d Cir. 2015). When considering a facial attack, the court accepts the plaintiff’s well-pleaded factual allegations as true and draws all reasonable inferences from those allegations in the plaintiff’s favor. See In re Horizon Healthcare Services Inc. Data Breach Litigation, 846 F.3d 625, 633 (3d Cir. 2017). When reviewing a factual attack, the court may weigh and consider evidence outside the pleadings. See Gould Elecs. Inc. v. United States, 220 F.3d 169, 176 (3d Cir. 2000).

III. DISCUSSION

The motion to dismiss will be granted. Petitioner seeks relief in the form of release (apparently from prison) in the Commonwealth of Virginia. The Petition is construed as a petition for writ of habeas corpus given that Petitioner seeks release from imprisonment in the State of Pennsylvania. Even were the Court to consider this as a petition for a writ of mandamus, the allegations falls short as Petitioner has other forms of relief available to him.¹

There is no indication that Petitioner was convicted and/or sentenced in Delaware. A petitioner may bring his application for a writ of habeas corpus “in the district court for the district wherein such person is in custody or in the district court for the district within which the State court was held which convicted and sentenced him and each of such district courts shall have concurrent jurisdiction to entertain the application.” 28 U.S.C. § 2241(d). “The plain language of the habeas statute [] confirms the general rule that for core habeas petitions challenging present physical confinement, jurisdiction lies in only one district: the district of confinement.” Rumsfeld v. Padilla, 542 U.S. 426, 443 (2004). This Court does not have jurisdiction to grant the relief Petitioner seeks.

In addition, as alleged, Petitioner was convicted by the Commonwealth of Virginia. The Petition makes no mention that Petitioner exhausted his state court remedies as is required when asking a federal court to grant relief to a state prisoner. See O’Sullivan v. Boerckel, 526 U.S. 838, 842 (1999).

Finally, Respondent cannot provide Petitioner the relief he seeks. The proper respondent in a habeas petition is “the person who has custody over the petitioner.” Rumsfeld, 542 U.S. at 434. The Petition does not alleges that Respondent is that person. Rather, it alleges that he is an employee of the Department of State in Washington, D.C.

Accordingly, Respondent’s motion to dismiss will be granted. It is not plausible that Plaintiff may be able to articulate a claim against Defendant and, therefore, the Court finds amendment futile.

IV. CONCLUSION

For the reasons discussed above, the Court will grant Respondent’s motion to dismiss. (D.I. 10) Amendment is futile.

An appropriate order will be entered.
